The choir leader from the television show “Gangstaterne” (The Walking Frames) stands on his own feet in a jazzy pop release with help from Curtis Stigers and Chris Minh Doky.

The talented and original Danish vocalist Ulrik Elholm debuts on January 21 with eleven new compositions on IT ALL COMES BACK TO YOU.

We followed his work as the dynamic motor and choir leader in the TV2 success “Gangstaterne”, where he coached a choir of totally inexperienced senior citizens with an average age of 81. The project culminated in an impressive gala concert at Copenhagen’s Opera House.

Now Ulrik Elholm demonstrates his personal vocal talents.

“It has been a long and educating process. I wrote all the songs myself, organized the studio sessions, found musicians and so on. But I’ve always lived for the music, so it’s great to finally have the finished album in my hands.”

Ulrik has spent a lot of time helping other singers – from Curtis Stigers to the Danish comedy and barbershop quartet Ørkenens Sønner. He has travelled the world from Miami to Amsterdam giving master classes. But when he is most alone, music and expressing himself through it, is what brings him joy and a feeling of being present in the moment.

“My music comes out of the singer/songwriter tradition. I try to create moods with lots of vibrancy and personality. I have been very inspired by artists like Norah Jones, Jamie Cullum, James Blunt and Michael Bublé.”

The Danish star bassist Chris Minh Doky and famed American vocalist and saxophonist Curt Stigers have helped Ulrik with the album.

The music was recorded at Copenhagen’s Sun Studio by some of Denmark’s finest musicians, including Aske Jacoby, Henrik Dam Thomsen, Maiken Ingvordsen, Kasper Tagel, Jonas Johansen, Jens Runge and Kristoffer Møller.

IT ALL COMES BACK TO YOU was produced by Jan Lysdahl and Maiken Ingvordsen.
